The School of Social and Political Sciences (SPS) takes an inter-disciplinary approach to Social Sciences, creating a dynamic and engaging teaching and research environment. Our wide variety of undergraduate and postgraduate programmes provide the necessary knowledge, skills, and training for a broad range of careers.

The School has a large academic and research staff with an international profile. We are home to major centres of research in areas including urban planning and real estate, central and eastern European studies, crime and criminal justice, and economic and social history. In the most recent REF results, over 80% of the School’s research performance was assessed in the top two categories of 4* world-leading or 3* internationally excellent.

SPS is also in the unique position of offering three Erasmus Mundus programmes: Russian, Central & East European Studies, Security Intelligence & Strategic Studies, and Global Markets, Local Creativities. Erasmus Mundus programmes promote the European higher education area and support the EU’s work in higher education.

   24th International Conference of Europeanists
Where to Go, Who to Ask

Just arrived? Visit the Registration Desk!

As soon as you arrive at the conference, please check in at the Registration Desk located in Hunter Hall. Our Registration Desk staff will give you a badge, badge holder, and conference program, and make note of your arrival. Hate standing in line? Well, if you are in Glasgow on the afternoon of July 11th, you can skip the crowds by checking-in at our Early Registration Desk. Also located in Hunter Hall, the Early Registration Desk will be open from 3:00pm to 5:00pm. So, skip the crowds and come on by!

Payments & Certificates of Attendance

A CES staff member will be on call throughout the conference to facilitate on-site registrations, finalize payments, and answer administrative and financial questions. Visit us at CES Administrative Services, next to the Registration Desk. To request an e-Certificate of Attendance, simply email certificate@ces-europe.org, and we will send your certificate to you digitally.

Places to Go Between Sessions

Looking for some tea/coffee and a place to work between sessions? The Concert Hall will be designated as a meeting and work space for the duration of the conference, and coffee/tea stations can be found outside Hunter Hall next door.

---

Technology

Powerpoint and Projectors

Every session room is equipped with a computer, projector, and projection screen. Session organizers are strongly encouraged to collect all presentations on a USB flash drive before the conference and then to arrive early to pre-load these files. This will help prevent technological delays during the session.

Attendees wishing to test their presentations on projecting equipment prior to the start of their sessions are encouraged to arrive early at their session room or to inquire about alternative testing sites by visiting the Registration Desk.

Remember! You must bring your presentation on a flash drive.

WiFi Access

The conference venue and all rooms are covered by Eduroam WiFi. Please use your own institutional login details to access Eduroam. For those delegates without an Eduroam account, individual WiFi access has been arranged and you should have received an email from the University of Glasgow with login details. If you have not received this email please speak with a member of staff on the CES Information desk in the Hunter Hall.

Europe and the World: Mobilities, Values and Citizenship

The intensification of migrant flows and capital mobility in Europe in an era marked by economic instability and security crises has generated widespread political backlash that poses fundamental threats to Europe’s core institutions. Understanding these developments necessitates the careful study of the wide-ranging and powerful processes of mobility, both from within and outside of Europe, that are reconfiguring identities and citizenship regimes across European nation-states. Because mobility processes are shaped by economic, cultural, and geopolitical factors and the challenges they raise span the domains of political governance, party politics, economic policy, security, and collective self-understanding, this topic requires interdisciplinary engagement across the social sciences and humanities. Many of the challenges facing Europe raise questions about the position of Europe in the world. What is specific about the European political crisis and what features does it share with comparable developments in the United States and Asia? To what degree are these changes fueled by transnational cooperation and the diffusion of strategies among political actors? What are the possible consequences of the ongoing migration patterns and the associated rise of populist politics for democratic institutions and the welfare state? How are mainstream parties on the left and the right responding to the challenges from the radical right, both in terms of electoral strategy and policy? How can tensions between essentialist views of ‘European values’ and the reality of mass migration be addressed through creative policies aimed at social and cultural inclusion?

In light of these concerns, the aim of the conference is to discuss the dimensions and dynamics of the nexus between existing and emergent (im)mobilities, values, and citizenship. While proposals on all topics related to Europe will be considered, special attention will be given to research that emphasizes the cultural, social, and political challenges related to Europe’s experience with internal and external migration. Projects that place the predictors, consequences, and lived realities of these developments in a comparative and international perspective are especially welcome. Specific topics may include, but are not limited to the following:

- Subnational, national, and European collective identities
- Practices of citizenship
- Social, cultural, and intellectual exchange
- Civic engagement and global responsibility
- Values, citizenship, and immigrant incorporation
- Governance
- Mobility and social exclusion
- Politics of heritage and memory
- Education and global citizenship
- International migration
- Pilgrimage, exploration, and migration
- Borders and security
- Anti-immigration politics

We welcome proposals in all these areas, including cross-thematic and interdisciplinary papers. Proposals may be submitted from August 8 to October 2, 2017. Priority will be given to panel submissions. Participants will be notified of the Program Committee’s decision by December 15, 2017.

Dear CES Community:

After years of financial, economic and political crises, there finally seems to be some more positive developments in Europe. Far right parties have been beaten in Austria, the Netherlands and France, which shows that right-wing populism is not necessarily the bleak future of European nation-states. These victories have – in combination with economic recovery – given some self-confidence to pro-European parties, opening up possibilities to reform the EU and to seriously look at the negative sides of neoliberal globalization. The renewed élan also helps in confronting some barely democratic governments within and on the periphery of Europe—in Hungary, Poland, and Turkey—openly flouting European Union norms and reversing the forward march of democratization and respect for human rights.

The anti-EU mood in the UK (Brexit, even a soft one) and the US (the Trump administration) seems to have an interesting and unexpected effect: continental Europe is more ‘on its own,’ having to look for new partnerships around the world, and having to take the lead in one of the most important battles of our times: the fight against global warming. This year’s CES conference theme “sustainability and transformation” is therefore extremely topical. The Paris agreements have an even broader meaning than the battle for the future of our planet. It shows new political configurations: among nations, but also among governments and social movements. During our conference, we have a broad understanding of the theme: sustainability is not just about ecological topics, social and economic transformations have to be sustainable as well.

Over 1200 scholars from a wide variety of disciplines participating in over 300 panels, roundtables and plenaries will analyze the challenges Europe faces and the developing and promising responses dealing with these challenges, hopefully leading to a more prosperous, fair and politically stable European future. The conference will also feature art works and films that will explore these and other topics. In short, these three days in Glasgow promise to provide discussions and debates about the necessary transformation and continuity for a sustainable future.

Along with all our participants, this conference could not happen without the tireless work of the CES staff, including our executive director, Nicole Shea, PhD, the efforts of the program chairs (Akos Ronatas and Jonathan Hopkin) and the program committee (Eamonn Butler, Kim Schepppele, Karen Anderson), and the support provided by our local organizing committee (Eamonn Butler, Maria Fletcher, Helen Hardman, Per Johansson, Kelly Kollman, Francis McKee, Clare McManus, Martin Petrov, Anthony Salamone, Myrto Tsakatika). In addition, the conference is supported by funding and in-kind gifts from the Centre for Contemporary Arts, The Conversation, Delta, European Commission, European Parliament, Glasgow City Council, The Mellon Foundation, People Make Glasgow, Scottish Centre on European Relations, University of Glasgow, Visit Scotland, and the World of Film International Festival.

Thank you all for attending and contributing to our discussions, debates and the success of CES’s 24th International Conference of Europeanists.

Warmest regards,

Jan Willem Duyvendak
Chair, Council for European Studies (CES)
University of Amsterdam
I am delighted to welcome the 24th Council for European Studies International Conference of Europeanists to the University of Glasgow.

Founded in 1451 by Papal Bull, the University of Glasgow has always been a university in the great European tradition. Europe is at the heart of the university, and is embodied by not only our heritage, but by our many staff and students who come from across the European continent and its islands, by our research and teaching collaborations with other European institutions, and by our engagement with European organisations and learned bodies.

The University is acutely aware of the many challenges that we in Europe face today and it is pertinent that we seek to better understand and address these, whether they be societal, political, economic, or environmental in nature. The issue of Brexit, in particular, has created a sense of unknowing and insecurity for our institutions and the freedoms that we have become accustomed to. Therefore, the questions raised by the conference theme of sustainability and transformation in Europe are highly relevant. Through this conference, the Council for European Studies brings together individuals from around the globe with an interest and desire to debate and engage with these questions, helping to move forward our understanding of Europe, as well as to imagine and perhaps even shape its future.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to wish all participants well and hope that you enjoy not only the conference, but have time to experience the city, which this university calls home – Glasgow.

EuropeNow Film Festival

Centre for Contemporary Arts, 350 Sauchiehall Street, G2 3JD*

The Council for European Studies, as part of the 24th Annual International Conference of Europeanists, is proud to present the EuropeNow Film Festival, hosted in collaboration with the World of Film International Festival Glasgow (WoFF).

The festival will take place at the CCA: Centre for Contemporary Arts in the City Centre of Glasgow with a wide array of film screenings, including both feature length and short films. The festival will open with the documentary Brexitannia, an 80-minute reflection on the Brexit Referendum in the UK where leave voters explain why they voted leave. The electorate’s comments are interspersed with the views of leading academics and commentators including Noam Chomsky, Saskia Sassen, Guy Standing, Nick Srnicek, Heidi Mirza and Federico Campagna.

All selected filmmakers compete for an audience award – one for Best Short Film and one for Best Feature Film – based on votes cast by audiences after individual festival screenings. The winning films will be announced on the last day of the festival and will be featured on the Visual column of EuropeNow, an interdisciplinary publication that features research, commentary, and journalism on Europe, alongside visual art, literary nonfiction, fiction, poetry, and translations.

Entry to the screenings is free although a suggested donation of £3 per screening is encouraged. All donations will go towards the audience selected Filmmaker Prize.

*PLEASE NOTE that the EuropeNow Film Festival is hosted offsite at the Centre for Contemporary Arts. To reach the venue, you can take the simpliCITY4 (firstbus) bus from the bus-stop on University Avenue at the Boyd Orr Building OR University Library and get off on Sauchiehall Street at the Dental School (which is next door to the CCA). Buses are every 10 minutes and the journey is 13 minutes. Alternately, it is a 25 minute walk or a 7 minute taxi ride to CCA. The nearest Subway stop to the CCA is Cowcaddens and it is a 7-10 minute walk. For more information about the CCA please see its website: http://www.cca-glasgow.com
FEATURE FILMS

Brexitannia
Wednesday July 12, 8.30 pm - CCA: Centre for Contemporary Arts
Director: Timothy George Kelly. Documentary, 80’, 2017, Russia / UK

On/off. Yes/no. Leave or Remain? While referenda always divide people, Brexit did so in a manner unprecedented in modern British history: old pitted against young, nationalists against migrants, the countryside against the city, and “the people” against “the elite.” But underneath these binaries we find human beings whose individual stories influenced the outcome of this historic and perplexing vote. In the referendum the UK was torn apart by debates over the great themes of our age: migration, waning empires, work and its decreasing relevance in an outsourced world that is becoming ever more automated. BREXITANNIA is a portrait of a democracy in all its impossible and ugly glory. With subtle force, yet without judgement, it presents the people of a once powerful empire as they negotiate their identities in a world that is changing faster than ever and in which power appears to lie further and further from people’s own hands.

The Islands and the Whales
Thursday July 13, 3.30 pm - CCA: Centre for Contemporary Arts
Director: Mike Day. Documentary, 81’, 2016, United Kingdom

Synopsis: In their remote home in the North Atlantic, the Faroe Islanders have always eaten what nature could provide, proud to put local food on the table. The land yields little, so they have always relied on harvesting their seas. Hunting whales and seabirds kept them alive for generations, and gave them the way of life they love; a life they would pass on to their children. But today they face a grave threat to this tradition. It is not the controversy surrounding whaling that threatens the Faroese way of life; the danger is coming from the whales themselves. The Faroese are among the first to feel the effects of our ever more polluted oceans. They have discovered that their beloved whales are toxic, contaminated by the outside world. What once secured their survival now endangers their children and the Faroe Islanders must make a choice between health and tradition.

ReEvolution
Friday 14 July, 3.15 pm - CCA: Centre for Contemporary Arts
Director: David Sousa Moreau. Political drama / Thriller, 101’, 2016, Spain

Synopsis: ReEvolution is a suspense and action film with a political and social plot, which many consider to be the first artistic work proposing an economic, political and philosophical close-up on the European crisis. The most sensational “media crime” investigation of history has started. In ReEvolution the flashbacks and the interrogatories weaves challenge the audience to rebuild the story of four individuals whose lives, stricken by the crisis, have arrived at their limit.
SHORT FILMS: WESTERN PROMISES
Wednesday July 12, 3.15 pm, CCA: Centre for Contemporary Arts

A selections of short films from Eastern Europe. Untold stories of men and women, families; their mission to embrace the change and fight for the unknown while nostalgically reminiscing all those unkept promises from the past.

Felicita by Yannis Zafiris / Greece, 10’, 2016
On a barren wintry scenery, an abandoned football field, unravels the story of a man, a woman and a child. The man and woman withdraw inside a car, while the child remains outside, despite the cold, kicking a ball. When man's efforts for reconciliation fail, woman and child come closer together.

Wall by Maya Tsamprou / Greece, 13’, 2015
Friday afternoon. Nine people before a wall. Waiting. Who has the right to see?

Hominid by Alexandros Salimis / Greece, 20’, 2017
A peaceful and rational man turns into a beast when it gets great pressure from the staff and his working environment.

Monica by Dimitris Argyriou / Germany, 5’, 2016
Monica wanted to become a hair dresser when she was young. Things went wrong. This is her story. Based on a real interview with a human trafficking victim.

Invisible by Kostas Gerampinis / Greece, 30’, 2016
Theodore is a lonely 25-year-old who spends his days working out. When he signs up to a new gym, he meets Vicky, a sexy 30-year-old trainer. He tries to claim her attention as he struggles with his shame, image and repressed libido.

Bus 43 by Alexis Lazaridis / Greece, 16’, 2015
The film deals with the story of a wealthy man who makes a “journey” incidentally with the public bus of the line, where he encounters some moments of his life that have marked his past. More specifically, he contacts with the bus passengers, who are reminiscent of his past at the most crucial periods of his life. His closest passenger is an old ragamuffin, who operates as a deus ex machine, by giving him advice and holding a different attitude than usual. The ragamuffin releases this man from the oppression.

Spectrum by Dimitris Gkotsis / Greece, 12’, 2015
Spectrum is used to classify something in terms of its position on a scale between two extreme points. This film documents a slice in the life of five different people living in the heart of the city of Athens and the power relations between them. Priorities entwine, leading to misunderstandings and finally the absolute brutality.
The debates over European identity as well as the continuing refugee crisis are but two examples of how the dynamic matrix of Europe requires continual engagement by the brightest minds. European artistic and cultural influences are integral parts of the greater understanding of both American and European history, as well as the tradition of sustaining and transforming cultural memory and identity. This symposium will be devoted to enhancing methodological design choices and best teaching practices to work within structures of power and using the arts as an accelerator to influence agendas, thereby creating bridges between culture, policy and shifts of thought that bring about lasting transformation.

The 2017 UK General Election: Earthquake or Politics as Usual?

July 13, 12:45 - 2pm

Wolfson Medical Building: Yudowitz Lecture Theatre

What does the June 2017 snap general election mean for the future of UK politics? Conservative Prime Minister Theresa May called the election early in the hopes of increasing the Conservative Party's majority in Parliament and thereby strengthen the UK’s bargaining position in its Brexit negotiations. Theresa May’s gamble failed spectacularly: the Conservatives lost their majority and is attempting to form a minority government with the support of the Northern Irish DUP (Democratic Unionist Party).

This roundtable considers key issues concerning the causes and consequences of this dramatic election outcome. What explains the surprising success of the Labour Party and its embattled leader, Jeremy Corbyn? How will the election result influence the UK’s Brexit negotiations? What does the election result mean for devolution and the future of social policy?

The Politics and Sociology of Health Inequities

July 14, 8am - 5:45pm

Kelvin Gallery

Now is the time for multidisciplinary engagement with the problematic of social inequalities in health, given that cutting-edge social epidemiology points toward “upstream” factors like social policy, citizenship and migration, labour markets, cultural configurations, and historical transformations and reproductions as the fundamental causes of long-documented differences between societies and social groups in the distribution of disease. This one-day event, a combined effort by leading researchers from two continents, brings together academics, practitioners and policy-makers concerned about understanding the politics of health inequalities and revitalising efforts to eliminate them.

This Mini-Symposium is organized by the 24th International Conference of Europeanists, Glasgow 2017 and Special Interest Group on Health Equity in a Glocal World, Wolfson Research Institute for Health and Wellbeing, Durham University

Until 1945, Europe was a wretched battlefield. Wars, rivalries and ambitions had robbed the Continent of stability, of prosperity, of peace and of a special identity. The end of World War Two changed the dynamics. The establishment of what is today’s European Union bestowed an extraordinary sense of hope, of peace, of reconciliation and of democracy, all along supported by the United States.

This is what the Europe now has to defend – not only against outsiders, but from within. Europe is torn between doubters, populists and sceptics who even question the EU’s relevance and those, like Emmanuel Macron, Wolfgang Schaueble and a handful of others who stand up for a Europe that is based on values, on progress, on facing the future, although they may differ about the direction. They share two things. The transatlantic relationship, the bedrock of post-1945 Europe, cannot be taken for granted. Europe can no longer piggy back on American security. And Europe cannot close down shop to globalization or digitilization.

If Europeans don’t embrace change and are not prepared to defend their values, they will undo what the founding fathers set out to achieve when it was founded 60 years ago in Rome. Non-democratic countries will be gleeful. It would usher in the decline if not eclipse of the West as we know it. Sleep walking has run its course.

Anand Menon (Discussant) is Professor of European Politics and Foreign Affairs at Kings College London. He also directs the Economic and Social Research Council Initiative on the UK in a Changing Europe. Previously, he has held positions at Sciences Po, Columbia University and NYU. He has written on many aspects of contemporary Europe including the EU politics and institutions and European security. He is co-editor of the Oxford Handbook of the European Union (OUP, 2012) and author, amongst other things, of Europe: The State of the Union (Atlantic Books, 2008). He has written widely on European integration for publications including the Financial Times, Prospect, The Guardian, The Daily Telegraph, The Times and Le Monde. He is a member of the European Council on Foreign Relations and an associate fellow of Chatham House.
Rt Hon Lord Jack McConnell of Glenscorrodale

Transforming approaches to Conflict and Development.

Where now for Europe?”

July 13 | 6:00 – 7:45pm, Bute Hall, University of Glasgow

Lord McConnell’s keynote will look at recent failures in the multilateral system and public disillusionment with institutions and leaders across Europe and beyond. It will address the future of multilateral institutions including the European Union, advocating new approaches to development and peacebuilding to meet today’s global challenges. Lord McConnell will argue that conflict prevention needs a new direction for the 21st Century, understanding causes and embracing different identities, within the context of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Jack McConnell (Keynote Speaker) was First Minister of Scotland from 2001 to 2007 and UK Special Representative for Peacebuilding 2008-2010. Lord McConnell is a Board member of the UK/Japan 21st Century Group and the Institute for Cultural Diplomacy in Berlin. He acts as an international consultant and guest lecturer to companies, universities and others; is Trustee or Patron of several charities engaged in development and conflict prevention, including as Chair of the McConnell International Foundation, with a particular interest in the life chances of vulnerable young people. He currently serves as Vice President of UNICEF UK, and he is Chair of the All-Party Parliamentary Group on the UN Global Goals. From 1999 to 2011, Jack McConnell was the Member of the Scottish Parliament for Motherwell and Wishaw. He was Scotland’s Minister for Finance 1999-2000 and Minister for Education, Europe and External Affairs 2000-2001. Lord McConnell was a leading member of the Scottish Constitutional Convention from 1989 to 1998; President of the Legislative Regions of Europe 2004; and was appointed to the House of Lords in 2010. He grew up on the Island of Arran in Scotland and was a Mathematics teacher in Secondary (high) Schools before entering Parliament.

Anton Muscatelli (Discussant) has been Principal and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Glasgow since October 1, 2009. From 2007-2009 he was Principal and Vice-Chancellor of Heriot-Watt University. An economist, his research interests are monetary economics, central bank independence, fiscal policy, international finance and macroeconomics. Professor Muscatelli chairs the Scottish Government’s Standing Council on Europe, a non-political group set up to provide expert advice to Scottish ministers on protecting Scotland’s relationship with the EU. He is also a member of the Scottish Government’s Council of Economic Advisers. He was a member of the steering group of the Lord Stern Review into university research funding, commissioned by Jo Johnson MP, Universities minister. Professor Muscatelli is a Trustee of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) Europe, a member of the Board of Glasgow Life, and Chair of the Commission on Economic Growth for the Glasgow City Region. He is a Director of USS (Universities Superannuation Scheme) and President of the David Hume Institute. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the National Centre for Universities and Business.
The Civic Reception for the 24th International Conference of Europeanists will be held at the Kelvingrove Art Gallery and Museum on Thursday, July 13, following Lord McConnell's keynote address. The reception is open to registered participants only and is funded with a generous grant from the Lord Provost and Glasgow City Council offices.

Moderator: Kirsty Hughes, Director of the Scottish Centre on European Relations

Following the UK’s decision to withdraw from the European Union and as BREXIT negotiations get under way, we seek to explore the challenges (and possible solutions) faced by governments (national and devolved), businesses and citizens around the issue of borders. With our distinguished panel, we will be discussing issues like customs and movement of people, goods and services between the UK and the EU, on the Ireland of Ireland and beyond.

The event will be live streamed.

Roundtable Event: Multi-speed Europe: Opportunities and Challenges as the EU27 Move Ahead

Thursday 13th July 2017
Randolph Hall, Main Building, University of Glasgow

1:30-2:00 pm – Doors open, Tea and Coffee provided
2:00-3:45 pm – Roundtable Discussion

Moderator: Dr Nicole Shea, Director · Council for European Studies

While Brexit preoccupies public life in the UK, the EU27 perspective is more varied – attentive to the sizeable challenges facing Europe and the globe, including the economy, security, external migration and climate change, and of course different national politics in the member states. Although the EU27 (unlike the UK) are resolved to facing these challenges together within the Union, there is disagreement over how to move European integration forward. Should multi-speed Europe be intensified, with a committed core leading the way, for others to follow later? Should the EU refocus more intently on core business – namely, the internal market? Should power in fact be passed back to the national level to ensure the sustainability and legitimacy of the European project? Looking ahead, what shape will the post-Brexit EU take? Alongside the Council for European Studies International Conference in Glasgow, join us as we discuss the prospects for the Union of 27.
