Accessing Virtual Platform

This is your entry point into the conference whether you are moderator, presenter, discussant, or audience member.

How do I get to the Open Water Virtual Conference Platform?

You can access the Platform via the CES website. Alternatively, you can access Open Water directly by copying the following link: <https://ces-columbia.secure-platform.com/a/>

To access all available conference features, please login:

Please note that only registered participants can access the platform. Therefore, make sure to use the email address affiliated with your conference registration. Once you click “Sign In,” you will receive an email with a unique link that you can use to login to the conference.

Having trouble accessing the platform?

Please contact CES staff at events@ces-europe.org.

How do I access the virtual session gallery?

Please click on “Virtual Sessions” in the navigation bar to view all sessions.

Twenty-Eighth International Conference of Europeanists

Virtual: June 20-22, 2022 | In-Person: June 29-July 1, 2022

What time zone will the event be in?

By default, all times are in Greenwich Mean Time Zone (GMT+1). This is 1 hour earlier than Central European Time (CEST) and 5 hours ahead of Eastern Daylight Time (EDT). To adjust your time zone, click on “Change” at the top of the page. All times will be automatically converted to your time zone.

To view more information and to join a panel, click the View Session Details button located next to each panel's description. The panel details, including buttons to join the Zoom session, will open in a new tab.

Times are displayed in GMT Daylight Time Change

The screenshot shows a virtual session gallery interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with a date selector showing "June 20" selected, followed by "June 21", "June 22", "June 28", "June 29", and "June 30". To the right of the date selector is a dropdown menu labeled "All Days". Below the date selector is a blue bar displaying the time "1:00 PM - 2:30 PM (GMT Daylight Time)". A red arrow points to the "Change" link in the text above.

The virtual conference component runs from June 20 to June 22. You can view the agenda for each day by clicking on the dates at the top of the page.

To view more information and to join a panel, click the View Session Details button located next to each panel's description. The panel details, including buttons to join the Zoom session, will open in a new tab.

How do I search for a Virtual Session?

To locate the panels you are presenting in or would like to attend, please use the search function on the right side of the page.

You can search by keywords or full panel titles. Please use the final conference program as a reference for all panel titles.

We advise against using your names in the search function because of potential spelling differences that lead to incomplete search results.

You may also apply various filters to locate panels that are close to your research interests. You can search by Panel Categories (Paper panel, Book Panel/Roundtable, or Conference Side-Event), Research Network Affiliation, Disciplines, or Substantive Tags.

How do I build my agenda?

You can select the panels you are presenting in or are planning to attend as your favorite by highlighting the star ☆ located next to each panel title. An additional “My favorites” Section will appear next to the conference days at the top of your page.

We advise you to build your agenda before the conference takes place so you can easily access your panels when the time comes.

You can also export panels to your preferred external calendar to receive reminders.

For chairs, moderators, discussants, panelists, and audience members: How do I join a Virtual Session?

Click on the panel title or “View Details” to access the full panel description. On the right side you will see the note about Zoom Room opening times.

The screenshot shows a virtual session page for "Academic Freedom and the Liberal Script: Europe and Beyond". At the top, there is a star icon and the title "Academic Freedom and the Liberal Script: Europe and Beyond". Below the title, there are links to "Add to Google | Outlook | iCalendar". The session date and time are listed as "June 20, 6/20/2022, 1:00 PM — 2:30 PM". The main content area contains a paragraph of text: "Academic freedom is under pressure, not only in authoritarian regimes but also in liberal democracies. To explore how contestations of academic freedom are related to the global backlash against liberalism, this panel looks at how academic freedom emerged and spread as a global norm in the first place. The focus will be on the extent to which academic freedom has historically been tied to the diffusion of the liberal script. To what extent was academic freedom part of the liberal script promoted and protected by international institutions after the Second World War? When and how have liberal and non-liberal states and regional institutions codified academic freedom in their constitutions or regional declarations? Was the diffusion of the academic freedom entangled with or decoupled from other parts of the liberal script, such as democracy, the rule of law, or secularism?". To the right of the text, there is a blue button labeled "View Session Details". A red arrow points to the title, and another red arrow points to the "View Session Details" button.

Each Zoom session opens 15 minutes before the official start time (for panelists) and closes 15 minutes after the official end time. Additional time can be used for testing technology, networking, or continued discussion. Please make Zoom rooms available for the next session by ending your panel on time.

Abstract

Academic freedom is under pressure, not only in authoritarian regimes but also in liberal democracies. To explore how contestations of academic freedom are related to the global backlash against liberalism, this panel looks at how academic freedom emerged and spread as a global norm in the first place. The focus will be on the extent to which academic freedom has historically been tied to the diffusion of the liberal script. To what extent was academic freedom part of the liberal script promoted and protected by international institutions after the Second World War? When and how have liberal and non-liberal states and regional institutions codified academic freedom in their constitutions or regional declarations? Was the diffusion of the academic freedom entangled with or decoupled from other parts of the liberal script, such as democracy, the rule of law, or secularism?

If you are a primary chair or moderator: Open your panel by clicking on the title or on “View details” 15 minutes before the session start time. On the right side of the page, you will be able to locate the button “Start Meeting.” Once you launch the panel, you will automatically be a Zoom host.

Please end the session no later than 15 minutes after the official end time so that the next session can take place. Depending on the individual panel circumstances, the session can end earlier than the official end time. However, we strongly recommend using the full duration allocated for each panel.

If you are a co-chair, discussant, or a speaker/panelist: Once the primary chair launches the panel, you can join the session in progress. You will see two options: to join as a co-host or to join as an attendee. Join as a co-host. If you accidentally join as an attendee, the host has to make you a co-host later so that you can use all Zoom functions (for instance, Screenshare).

If you are an attendee: Open a panel description at the formal start time and join the meeting in progress as an attendee.
